

1980 THE 50TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE WHITNEY MUSEUM OF AMERICAN ART

Whitney Museum of American Art

50th Anniversary Party for Artists
Wednesday, January 9, 1980

This memento of the first event in the 50th Anniversary year of the Whitney Museum of American Art celebrates the continuing commitment to artists established by Gertrude Vanderbilt Whitney.

The 50th Anniversary party and this brochure are made possible by Devoe & Reynolds Co. Division of Grow Group, Inc.

IN JANUARY 1930, Gertrude Vanderbilt Whitney announced her plans to open a museum devoted exclusively to American art. It was her belief "that American art has an important contribution to make . . . that in order to make this contribution effective, a sympathetic environment must be created. . . . Motivated by such a belief it is natural that the Whitney Museum of American Art should be primarily concerned with the work of living artists."

In the brief course of 50 years, this sympathy and support on the part of the Whitney Museum has helped to create a whole new environment for the contemporary artist in the United States. Not only are the contributions of American artists no longer ignored, they are internationally celebrated.

It is with great pleasure that I, as Governor of the State of New York, join in honoring the Whitney Museum of American Art on its 50th Anniversary. This unique institution, which has done so much to advance the work of the living American artist, brings great distinction to the State.

HUGH L. CAREY

Governor

December 6, 1979

THE WHITNEY MUSEUM OF AMERICAN ART is the only major museum devoted exclusively to the art of our country and the work of living American artists. The Museum maintains the most comprehensive collection of twentieth-century American art in any public institution and continues its commitment to exploring new directions in American art.

The Museum plays a vital role in presenting American art to people throughout the United States and abroad through loans, exhibitions and publications, and offers citizens of New York and visitors alike the pleasant environment of its award-winning building for the study and enjoyment of the history of American art.

Founded in 1930 by Gertrude Vanderbilt Whitney, the Museum has made a major contribution to our appreciation and understanding of American art. It is altogether fitting that New York City, the cultural capital of the world, give official recognition to this outstanding institution on the occasion of its 50th Anniversary.

Now, therefore, I, Edward I. Koch, Mayor of the City of New York, do hereby proclaim the week of January 7 to 13, 1980, as Whitney Museum of American Art 50th Anniversary Week in New York City, and direct the attention of all our citizens to this significant milestone in the cultural life of our city and nation.

FIFTY YEARS AGO, at the opening of the Whitney Museum on West 8th Street, my mother had a small party, mostly of artists, and she made a little speech, which was rare for her to do. It truly was an exciting event. And the small museum was a cozy and lovely place. In all the years since, we have tried to maintain the special atmosphere that would make artists feel at home. When we moved to 54th Street, I was concerned that the Museum would not have that intimate and joyful air that my mother had created, but I think we had it, although to a slightly lesser degree. Mrs. Force did much to create that atmosphere on 8th Street, and she was a great protector and friend of my mother.

My mother left the Museum to me when she died. She said I could sell it or keep it. Imagine if I had sold the greatest museum of American art in the world! My contribution during all the years I was president was to move the Museum to this inspired building that Marcel Breuer and Hamilton Smith designed, and that was constructed by them with the help of Michael Irving, my architect son-in-law, who had much to do with the planning. Now my daughter, Flora Irving, as the president, is doing a truly marvelous job, and no one would have been more proud of her, as we celebrate our 50th Anniversary, than her grandmother, Gertrude Vanderbilt Whitney.

FLORA WHITNEY MILLER

President, 1942-66

GERTRUDE VANDERBILT WHITNEY announced the founding of the Whitney Museum of American Art on January 6, 1930, following a twenty-year period in which she was the most active patron of American art, encouraging artists through purchase and exhibition, and the support of art publications and organizations. She established the close relationship between the Museum and American artists which we are proud to celebrate with this first event in the 50th Anniversary year, to which 944 artists, represented in the Permanent Collection as of January 1, 1980, and listed on the following pages, have been invited. The date in italics following the name of each artist indicates the year in which a work by that artist first became part of the Permanent Collection.
